These Are Not the Same Tears - Marilyn Morehouse 2015-08-18

Weeping may endure for a night, but joy comes in the morning. Psalm 30:5 Depression, disappointments, divorce, and deliverance all in one book. I had to faith it till I made it. My desire is to use my life as the vehicle to get someone dealing with depression, abuse, and divorce over to a place where they can move forward in God. There is life after it all! I am a witness. God didn't want me to take my journey personally; this was bigger than me. My pain was for a purpose, and I was handpicked for the journey. I've had mountaintop-high and valley-low experiences, but they were not for me. They were for someone else. God knew the plans he had for my life, and it included a platform for people who feel like they cannot persevere. As women, we put on masks and we pretend real good, but we are no good for anybody walking dead! Walking dead and empty just to say we have a man, a marriage, and a materialistic life. When you read my book, you will see that in the midst of the storm, God propped me up and pushed me through. If God did it for me, he will do it for you, because he has no respect of persons. Just read it because God got the glory, but now I am telling my story. Not to demean anyone in my book but to help deliver everyone I encounter who is battling with what life dealt them: a hand that seems to be the losing hand.

My Life In Peru - Cecil C. Peck 2011-05-20

I first met Faby in the summer of 2000. On line. I was having a very bad day, just taking a break, checking my e-mail, and this little window popped up, saying "hello" My first response was, "who are you and what do you want?" She said her name was Fabiola, but her friends call her Ann, and she just wants a friend. It took us five years of talking on line before I went down there to see her. We talked on yahoo quick chat for the longest time. After spending one week with her, I could not stand being with out her. I returned to Lima, Peru, South America in Jan. of 2006. I love my wife very much. This is my story, some of the things I did, and seen while I was there.

The Red Shoes - John Stewart Wynne 2013-06-19

"I read this so fast I got blisters turning pages. The Red Shoes is so astonishingly good, original, beautiful and amazing... I think The Red Shoes is a great work of art."—Kate Christensen, winner of the PEN/Faulkner Best American Work of Fiction Award for The Great Man In The Red Shoes, narrator John Laith is mourning the untimely death of his partner, Frank, and is trying to recover from that loss. An active participant in a Twelve Step grief recovery group, he has a loving, supportive network of friends. Yet he feels something is missing, an ability to put his sorrow aside and once again feel the full force of life, its promise of excitement and abandon. An opportunity presents itself in the form of a present given to him—a pair of shiny red shoes—by a handsome eighteen-year-old modern dancer, who failed to make his mark in the city as an artist. When Laith helps him following an assault, the dancer has nothing to offer by way of thanks except his red shoes. Laith now possesses the sparkling red shoes. Or perhaps they possess him—propelling him on a perilous journey through both the affluent and seedy sides of a vividly brought to life Manhattan at the turn of the millennium. An innocent in a sinister underworld, Laith tries to survive his newfound ties to unpredictable and chillingly unforgettable characters. Laith inexplicably cannot escape his fascination with exploring the dark side. Is it because of the terrible magical powers of those red shoes? Or is it because of some hidden desire within himself? A riveting battle between the sacred and the profane is at war inside him—and in the end there comes a shocking moment of realization where he must finally choose between them.

The Last Tear - Jean Alice Rowcliffe 2013-07-29

This book is a MUST READ for anyone who has lost a loved one or is seeking an honest story about what it is like to traverse the journey of grief. Juli Fraga, Psy.D., Licensed Psychologist A mother grasps her dying sons hand, struggling how to let go and aghast at what life will become after his death. The Last Tear is the harrowing true story of my only child James, a dynamic 17 year old who was diagnosed in 2008 with an extremely rare form of cancer, dying eleven months later on the eve of Mothers Day. Forever Sleep - Zack Figueroa 2005-04

In Forever Sleep, author Zack Figueroa descends into the realms of both horror and the supernatural--in the form of twenty new short stories that will keep the reader entranced. An excerpt from the story "Swim Class" Her tiny blue eyes started blankly ahead, until they fixed themselves in the direction of his glance. He took his eyes off this phantom as he drew his arms forward in a sort of flapping motion as if to swim away. Once he looked back into the general area, he saw that it was the mysterious woman once again. He tried to ask her--what she was, but the only thing that came out was a blurted sound composed of bubbles and vocal cords. All of that meant nothing once he looked down at her legs. What he saw weren't legs at all, instead they looked more like the tentacles of an octopus. Once he looked back up at her upper torso, her arms were suddenly replaced with the pincers that of a huge mutated crab. Below her wide eyes that were now unblinking started to form a huge mouth of serrated teeth that were growing from ear to ear, to the point that her nose was being stretched into nothingness.

Two Faces Equal One Tear - Marshay Cliff 2021-07-12

Tragedy has hit home for Marshay Cliff with the murder of her youngest son, Daniel, who was accidentally shot in the head by a cousin while the cousin played with a gun. The murder is a crushing blow for Marshay, and she wants to die also. The pain is too much for her to bear. While there are others hurting over the death of their grandson, their brother, their uncle, and friend, it is Marshay who feels she has lost the most. For a parent to have to bury a child, life itself seems to have been buried as well. There no longer seems a reason to live. But then, pain clears the vision of what life really entails. Life is not one-sided. Parents who lose a child must find new ways to live in order to function while still accepting and dealing with heartache and pain that comes with death of any kind. The parent must also realize that she is not the only one who hurts or suffers and that regardless of the loss, many people suffer and feels pain due to the death of a loved one. Therefore, Marshay's purpose in Two Faces Equal One Tear is to shed light upon all deceased and their hurting survivors. She aims to demonstrate that though everyone's pain is different and their suffering unique, all can be united in grief. No one should have to deal with the death of a loved one alone, especially the death of a child. Can the death of a child be overcome? Can love bring joy and happiness back after dealing with such tragedy? Should parents deem their loss greater than the loss of another? Marshay attempts to answer all these questions and more. Enjoy the story of tragedy, love, and God's purpose for life after death.
